Concert Roundup

By Jay Lustig/The Star-Ledger
October 31, 2009, 11:41AM

Soul singer Bettye LaVette became active in the '60s and achieved some success, but it's only over the last five years or so that she has really achieved the acclaim she always deserved. Currently living in West Orange, she will perform at a benefit for the Mental Health Association of Essex County, Nov. 7 at 8 p.m., at the South Orange Performing Arts Center

Jay,
What do you think of Monsters of Folk? Would you recommend seeing them in concert? Obviously I like some of the lead singers' bands or I wouldn't ask. Also, how is Ray Davies in concert? Does he do the Kinks hits?

By the way, the R&R Hall of Fame concerts sound great. Can't wait to see the HBO special.

I think anything involving Conor Oberst is always worth seeing. I think he's the real deal - amazing songwriter, driven performer. I saw these guys do a joint show in Jersey City maybe five years ago - they were booked as themselves, not Monsters of Folk - and it was excellent.

Davies does do a lot of Kinks songs at his own shows. The upcoming Town Hall shows should be particularly interesting as he'll be backed by a choir on some or all songs.
