

Campus Climate Survey 2012

As part of Ramapo College's commitment to campus climate, the Diversity Action Committee (DAC) collects data approximately every five years in order to assess which efforts to support diversity have succeeded and also to assess aspects of campus life that need to be improved. The Campus Climate Survey solicits feedback from faculty, staff, and students on a broad range of topics including, but not limited to, discrimination, harassment, and the extent to which diverse perspectives are represented in the classroom. The goal of the survey is to use results to ensure Ramapo's environment is supportive and inclusive for all individuals in our community.

We all have a stake in the continued success of the College, and it is essential that we gather your opinions via the Campus Climate Survey. To that end, Educational Benchmarking Inc. \(EBI\) will be administering this confidential survey. A campus wide e-mail with a link to the survey will be sent on February 6. While the survey is comprehensive in scope, it is also concise and should take only 20 minutes to complete.

The last Campus Climate Survey was conducted at Ramapo in 2006. It concluded that that while the College had several challenges in regard to diversity issues, these challenges were also commonly found in higher education institutions across the country. The College has used this data over the years to inform its programming, services, enrollment, and human resources.
