

3-International Studies

Nora Dougherty. In addition to majoring in International Studies, Nora has a minor in Political Science, a minor in Spanish Language, and a minor in Human Rights and Genocide Studies. She is an Honors Program student. Her Honor Program research project focused on European migration policies. She spent a semester on study abroad in Spain. She has been involved in the Community Service Center, where she has organized countless campus events, including Invisible Children, which advocates for victims of armed conflict in Uganda, and has brought survivors of that violence to campus. She has served as a "Global Ambassador" for the International Education office, and has also served as the study in Spain student ambassador--a position for which she won recognition from the Spanish Ambassador in 2011. Her research paper--on the "Reproductive Rights in Chile"--won her the Pi Sigma Alpha essay award.

Future Goals: Nora has been awarded a very competitive and prestigious Fulbright Teaching Assistantship for Spain for the 2012-13 academic year and plans to pursue graduate studies in international affairs in fall 2013.
