Yamesha (Mesh) Woodley. An outstanding student, Amanda is already an accomplished researcher. She has the ability to combine quantitative with qualitative data. One of her independent studies resulted in a conference paper, which she presented at the Annual Meeting of the Northeastern Political Science Association. Yamesha has built her own database to address issues and question on American political institutions and processes.

Future Goals: Yamesha will be pursuing graduate work in Higher Education Administration at Rowan University in fall 2012
