August 2022 Post-graduation Outcomes

The First Destination Survey (FDS) is a nationwide survey developed and managed by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE). The goal of the survey is to gather and measure data on students' post-graduation outcomes within six months of graduation. The information represents only the first destination for seniors graduating in August 2022 and does not necessarily reflect their current occupation or activity.

The information presented was gathered from self-reported student data collected using the following methods: student responses to the Handshake-administered First Destination Survey, Cahill Career Development Center review of students' LinkedIn profiles, or administrative entries of information that students reported to the Cahill Career Development Center outside of the survey and prior to survey close.
