

Be Heard. Listen. was conceived in response to a question posed by Provost Michael Middleton, “Is there a way to engage students in conversation through a work of public art?”

The purpose is simple; to engage the campus through an opportunity to be heard, and to amplify the other on-campus programming by calling attention to student perspectives and experiences which are often unshared.

This is an artistic response to a community experience and not intended to be journalistic.

Instructions for Participation

For disability related accommodations, please call 201.684.7363