Ramapo College’s Les Paul Concert to Feature Robert Aiki Aubrey Lowe and Susie Ibarra

MAHWAH, N.J. – The annual Les Paul Concert at Ramapo College of New Jersey welcomes Robert Aiki Aubrey Lowe and Susie Ibarra on Saturday, February 5 at 8 p.m. at the Berrie Center for the Arts.

Robert Aiki Aubrey Lowe is an artist, curator and composer that works primarily with, but not limited to voice and modular synthesizer for sound in the realm of spontaneous music. Along with analog video synthesis works, he has brought forth an A/V proposal that has been a focus of live performance and installation/exhibition. As of late, Lowe has also put more focus on composition for film, both in solo scoring and collaboration. His score for “Candyman” just made the shortlist for the 2022 Oscars.

Joining Lowe will be composer, percussionist and sound artist Susie Ibarra. Ibarra has been described by Modern Drummer Magazine as “a sound like no other’s, incorporating the unique percussion and musical approach of her Filipino heritage with her flowing jazz drum set style.”
