Princeton Review SAT Prep Plus College Immersion available at Ramapo College of New Jersey this Summer

MAHWAH, NJ – Students preparing for the college admissions SAT are invited to register for the Princeton Review SAT Prep Plus College Immersion summer program at Ramapo College of New Jersey.

Appropriate for students entering 10th, 11th and 12th grades, the program will run July 18-29 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. It includes four proctored SATs with detailed computer analysis of the results, 11 practice tests for the SAT and PSAT, extra online lessons, special college admissions seminars, and much more.

“What makes our summer SAT Prep stand out beyond the exceptional preparation provided by the Princeton Review instructors is the college admissions immersion seminars,” said Rosa Diaz-Mulryan, director of youth/pre-college programs and assistant vice president for the Center for Innovative and Professional Learning at the college. “At Ramapo, students hear directly from the college admissions staff on special topics related to applying to college.”

Students are presented with college admissions seminars on four afternoons covering topics such as how to write the best college admissions essay, how to know whether a college is the right fit for you, how to choose a major, and how to apply for scholarships and financial aid.

Ramapo College also offers spring and fall term SAT preparatory programs through Lentz and Lentz SAT Prep, and online preparation for the GRE, GMAT and LSAT.

The Ramapo College of New Jersey test preparation programs are directed by the Center for Innovative and Professional Learning. The Center supports postgraduate professional education, workforce development, and alternative learning. The Center also engages in internal and external educational partnerships to advance the College, and provides innovative continuous learning opportunities for community members of all ages.
