

Deputy Secretary of Higher Education Speaks at Ramapo College

MAHWAH, NJ — Deputy Secretary of Higher Education Gregg Edwards spoke at Ramapo College last month as part of Higher Education Awareness Week.

Deputy Secretary Edwards discussed issues facing higher education institutions in New Jersey.

Prior to his current role, Deputy Secretary Edwards was director of policy for New Jersey Governor Chris Christie, the founding president of the Center for Policy Research of New Jersey and the executive director of the New Jersey Senate.

The event was sponsored by College Advocates Supporting Higher Education Committee, Civic and Community Engagement Center and the Office of the President.