Welcome from Dean Campbell

Welcome to Ramapo College of New Jersey, Roadrunners! I am Dr. Peter Campbell and I joined Ramapo in 2007 as an Associate Professor of Theater History and Criticism. The School of Contemporary Arts provides students with an understanding of the fundamental traditions of the Fine and Communication Arts while simultaneously preparing students to embrace new means of expression. Students are afforded the opportunity to develop and communicate ideas in many arts-related disciplines. Excellent instruction as well as experiential activities outside the classroom environment provide practical experience. I am thrilled to have you as a student in the School of Contemporary Arts. Please feel free to email me at pcampbel@ramapo.edu or stop by BC-237 to say hello!

Alumni Spotlight

“As a self-taught musician, I was ambivalent toward attending college as a music major...Courses at Ramapo College began to refine my skills as a composer and songwriter, taught me intriguing history and exposed me to thought-provoking angles of the contemporary music industry...After careful planning with my advisor, I was able to participate and study abroad in Cambridge, UK for my first semester as a senior. My time abroad has influenced me greatly as a musician and student, exposing me to worldly perspectives and rich musical cultures...”.

Todd Stetcher ’16
Music with dual concentrations in Music Industry and Music Production
